Abstract

Prayer is one of the fundamental principles of Islam and is considered as the second pillar of Islam which indicates its high importance. One of the disagreement cases raised in the issue of prayer is the cases of adding the five daily prayers and their times. All the Islamic religions, excepting Ahnaf and Al-Zaheri, have allowed adding two prayers based on some excuses. The Sunni juris consult allowed adding two prayers in some conditions with the common aspect of human egression from the normal mode. But excuses are different in various societies and era. It is evident that ancient Islamic juris consults did not pay attention to excuses of the modern societies. By investigating the praying time in the Holy Quran, it can be concluded that some prayers have various and common times, and considering valid and legal excuses, adding two prayers is permitted.
